Tree Surround Release - Thursday 30th October 2014

Grey Water Wetland above Lake Ferry

The trees we planted in the wetland adjacent to the grey water fields above the settlement at Lake Ferry have grown....heaps! The surrounds that we protected them with now need removing - see what a difference 12 months makes!

We are gathering at the site on Thursday 30th of October at 5.30pm and invite you to join us - this is a child friendly event so children are welcome (at your own risk and under your supervision). The work won't be onerous and we would love you to help us remove the guards and shape a vision for this project. Look out for our new SWBG flags to mark the entry to the site.

Following this we will adjourn to the Lake Ferry Hotel for a bar meal and a pint! All welcome :-)

University Students from United States Conducting Research in Wairarapa

Additionally - I would like to invite you to participate in some research (as below). Two of these students joined us at our recent Management team meeting and shared generously with us - they want to hear your stories and your knowledge. This is your change to have your say about our water catchment.

Students Seeking Community Participation for Project on Wairarapa Moana

Three students from Colorado State University are doing their thesis projects on values, knowledge and access of freshwater in the Wairarapa Moana area. The students are seeking participants for interviews, mapping and photography exercises. It is preferred that respondents reside in towns or communities around the Wairarapa Moana complex.

For the photography exercise, it is preferred that participants use freshwater areas of the Wairarapa Moana for cultural, recreational or agricultural purposes. The facilitator is asking respondents to photograph areas within the Wairarapa Moana complex that are personally significant to the participant, with a short interview following to discuss the photos collected. Photography skills are not required, and if respondents need a camera one will provided for the purpose of the activity.

Mapping exercises require individuals that are willing to share their knowledge of freshwater quality in the Wairarapa Moana area through the use of map illustrations created by the participants. No experience in mapping or drawing is required for the activity, rather just a willingness to share in personal knowledge of freshwater quality. Additionally, there is an opportunity for respondents to participate in an interview to share experiences regarding access to freshwater in the area.

The students are eager to capture the stories and knowledge of the communities surrounding the Wairarapa Moana complex. If you are interested in participating in any aspect of this project, or would simply like more information, please contact the students at this collective email: wairaraparesearch@gmail.com. For photo participant interests the number is 020 4041 9194. Mapping exercises is 022 308 8032. Interviews about access to barriers is 027 316 8770.

Look out for a comprehensive newsletter in your in box in a few weeks with After 5 events and our Christmas function.

Warm Regards,
Heather Atkinson
